The Coolidge Speech
Harding Not Mentioned
10 Good Words
13 "Socialistic"
Current Events
By Arthur Brisbane

COAST, 1924, New York
YOU NOTICE the shortness of the Coolidge sentences, compared with those of Mr. Davis. These ten words, "I propose to do my duty as best I can," could not be improved by any young period. If these ten words and nothing else of the Coolidge talk had been sent on the radio, it would have been a better campaign document than eight columns "headed," which is like feeding a meal for a whale to a minnow.

THIRTEEN other words from the Coolidge speech, if they had been in a La Follette speech, would have been called "Socialism" by the prosperous. Talking of those that pay large income taxes, Coolidge said: "They can take care of themselves, whatever happens, as the rich always can."

A PRESIDENT, writing a long message should hire a good copy reader, like Charles of the old Sun, or Walter Hovey of New York's Daily Mirror, and get him to cut away everything but four hundred words for the radio. That would be a real campaign document.

SOME ARE AMAZED because President Coolidge's speech does not mention the name of Harding, but that means little. W. W. Harper, of No. 114 North High street, Los Angeles, writes that the word "immortal" appears in the Bible only once, 17th verse of the first chapter of first Timothy. Yet the whole importance of the Bible is in the word "immortal." The country is grateful to Harding, if only because he was Secretary of the Treasury, thus securing the services of one of the ablest business men in the United States, who cut thousands of millions from the public debt.

ONE FACT stands out. President Coolidge considers the League of Nations as dead now as when the people rolled up seven million extra votes against it in the Harding campaign. He hopes that private citizens and industries will help Europe, but makes it clear that the American people won't be taxed or urged to buy bonds in finance Europe's new wars and past troubles. There are a great many votes in that information.

THE COOLIDGE SPEECH from end to end shows confidence that can't be mistaken. His statement about finances cannot be brushed away with any argument worth while. The Democratic party in 1921 had picked up a gigantic debt, more than twenty-four billions, billions of it short-time obligations, which would have puzzled anybody but Mellon.

UNITED STATES BONDS were below par when the Republicans took hold. They are above par now. Taxes were higher; they have been reduced. And there were five million people looking for jobs. Give the devil his due, whether he be Republican or Democrat; Republicans have improved things considerably in three years. That, of course, doesn't prove that the Democrats couldn't improve them more in the next four years.

MR. HILLIS tells the President that New York will be Republican. If he were completely informed on the after-effects of the Democratic convention in New York city, he would do more than tell the President. He would not say it.

THE CITY OF NEW YORK will turn in a Presidential vote this Fall that will surprise its oldest inhabitants. LIEUTENANT DONALD PHILLIPS flew 1,200 miles from Texas to Ohio. You may say, "That's nothing, everybody does it." But notice the size of his flying machine, called "Alouette." Spread of wings 13 feet, total weight, including motor, 400 pounds. That machine does 20 miles an hour, and could take a traveling man from New York to Chicago in 8 hours.

GIRL AT HOME WATCH KEPT AFTER BEING HELD 4 DAYS

By HENRY FORD.
Dr. Raymond D. Thier, accused of slaying his brother-in-law, David Maynard Noble, is reported by witnesses to have been so suspicious of Noble following the death of the latter that he shadowed him at times. Following over the death of his sister Louise, who he treated for years, he was long a cheerful companion, but after the death of Noble, he became a suspicious, almost morose, man. He was seen to be in the habit of watching the girl who was his sister's companion, and he was seen to be in the habit of watching the girl who was his sister's companion, and he was seen to be in the habit of watching the girl who was his sister's companion.

Moyers, the Fugitive Vermont Kiegle, Hiding in N. Y. City; Arrest Is Near

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 16.—William C. Moyers, the runaway klanster of the Ku Klux Klan, has been located in New York, according to James R. Wood, head of the Boston detective agency that bears his name.

He professes that Moyers will be arrested within twenty-four hours and brought here to stand trial for despoiling St. Mary's Cathedral and conspiring to kill or burn all the Catholic churches of New England. As word that the arch conspirator was about to be captured was received here the rumor of St. Mary's Cathedral was called on his flock to remain calm.

WAR GESTURE IN THEATRE DISTRICT

Managers and Unions Have One Week To Get Together

By NICHOLAS YOUNG
THEATRE are approaching conditions in local theatrical affairs that may result in the partial or complete suspension of operations during the early weeks of the new season. The local managers have arrived at a perfect deadlock with representatives of the stage hands, musicians and moving picture operators' organizations, with the result that the theatre may have a walk-out or lockout. The result will be about the same in either case.

For several weeks the three closely associated unions have been pressing upon the managers the importance of their claims for an increase in wages. A solid healthy advance among the present scale, increased cost of living, increased hours of labor and other factors have entered into the demands of the unions. These items have been insisted upon the managers, who, justly have called, everybody's attention to the fact that the lack of cost of operating the theatre prevents a further increase in wages. The theatre has been struggling because of industry, they claim to effect, and the increase demanded by the unions would completely block any possibility of operating the theatre of the human involved. Consequently the demands are being combatively arranged in a carefully worded answer that has all the earmarks of a political compromise.

However, the unions are adamant—they will not yield an inch. It is reported that the managers are quietly assembling in union men to take care of their mechanical and musical personnel beginning Labor Day. In the meantime the theatre has just finished the longest week of their summer season.

THE VETS BRING MONEY

It is generally understood in theatrical circles that there is more desire to spend money than to receive it. Although there are exceptions who have not a false hope in their hearts, as a business proposition, the two most recent examples of what a convention does not contribute to a box office are the convention of the Democratic Convention in New York and the convention of the United States in New York. The Democratic Convention in New York, which was held at the Waldorf-Astoria, was a complete failure. The United States Convention in New York, which was held at the Waldorf-Astoria, was a complete failure. Who's Who and What's What Concerning Holder Attractions at the Playhouses

"Abraham Lincoln" at Tremont Temple. (Fourth week). The spirit of America as reflected in the life of the Great Emancipator. Timely entertainment that stirs a patriotic thrill.

"Little Jessie James" at the Wilbur. (Third week). High speed musical comedy, spiced with erotic situations strongly reminiscent of the days of bed room farce.

Glenn Hunter in "Merton of the Movies" at the Fenway. (Second week). A popular story and more popular play turned into a motion picture true comedy of extraordinary charm and delight.

W. C. Fields in "Poppy" at the Majestic. (Third week). In which Mr. Fields mixes his drama with intricate juggling and keeps everybody in gleeful excitement. Tonic for the blues.

"Fairest of the Day" at Waldorf Casino. (Fourth week). The silence of "Beverly" Snyder, who tells without words, is deliciously diverting in these days of high temperature.

World's Largest Yacht in New Picture

The largest yacht in the world will soon make its debut in motion pictures. The central figure of Cecil B. DeMille's new Paramount picture, "The Sign of the Cross," is the 287-foot Catalina of H. L. Doherty, the oil magnate. It is the picture's greatest attraction, which will give the picture a forced run to Mexico during the summer months. The picture is the oil field there, some years ago.

NURSE SEEKS MOTHER LOST 30 YEARS

Miss Donnelly, who is a governess in the Long Island Hospital, Boston Harbor, has had three offers of marriage, but refused them all until she finds her mother and is assured of her comfort and safety. Thirty years ago Mrs. Donnelly, then in straitened circumstances, left her two daughters in a New York nursery. One of the girls died, and the present Miss Donnelly, who feels assured her mother is still alive, vows she will never be a bride until her mother can be with her.

MISS JOSEPHINE DONNELLY.

WILL NOT WED UNTIL MOTHER IS FOUND

A search for her mother which must be carried to a successful conclusion before she can marry, is being undertaken by Miss Josephine Donnelly, governess at the Long Island Hospital in Boston Harbor. The mother, Mrs. Annie Kennedy Donnelly, was separated from her in New York thirty years ago. Miss Donnelly has had three offers of marriage, she says, and is devoting her vacation to the search for her mother so that she can accept one of them. The young woman was left at the New York Nursery and Child Hospital with her twin sister by their mother when both were infants. Mrs. Donnelly, whose husband was dead and whose money had given out, said she would return for the children. Two and a half months later one of the twins died. The mother failed to return. The survivor was transferred to the Boston Island Children's Hospital, and eventually became a nurse. Miss Donnelly is confident her mother is alive, and that she will find her. "I have had three offers of marriage," she said, "but have refused them all for I feel that I must find my mother first of all and make sure that she is happy and comfortable."

OPIUM PASSED ON SHIP HERE FOUND IN N. Y.

Though Boston customs officials had searched the liner President Hayes of the Dollar Line and found no contraband, New York inspectors unearthed opium worth $12,000, several cases of whiskey and 200 jars of Chinese confidant of strong alcoholic content. The ship, which docked in Boston Thursday, is one of the Dollar Line ships engaged in around the world service. The search made here was more or less perfunctory, as there was no information the boat was carrying contraband goods. New York customs officials were "tipped off" however, and after a four-hour search found opium concealed between decks in the hold. Captain Ford Anderson of the President Hayes had been advised by the Customs House service in New York and explained.

SOUND BEACH CARNIVAL RAIDED FOR GAMBLING

Stamford, Conn., Aug. 16.—State police raided the annual carnival of the Sound Beach volunteer fire department, seizing seven gaming wheels, and arrested eleven men and one woman, each charged with violation of the State gaming law. Many persons were present, including some of the executive committee of Sound Beach. It was decided upon after a number of Sound Beach residents had protested to Governor Tompkins. As a result the management of the carnival announced today that it would be closed until further notice.

MAHARAJA SAILS AWAY WITH A CROUCH

New York, Aug. 16.—H. H. Maharaja Rajindra, Bahadur of India, with his wife, started home to India on the Majestic today, after a brief visit to America. They declined to be interviewed, but the statement that he was leaving in no better health than when he arrived and that, anyway, he didn't come here for his health. The Maharaja Rajindra, who wore a pink silk creation set off by a ten karat diamond in her left nostril, indicated her husband was not in excellent humor. Her escort, however, was cut off by the Maharaja, who ordered her and her four maid-servants to their quarters. The survivor was transferred to the Boston Island Children's Hospital, and eventually became a nurse. Miss Donnelly is confident her mother is alive, and that she will find her. "I have had three offers of marriage," she said, "but have refused them all for I feel that I must find my mother first of all and make sure that she is happy and comfortable."

FARMERS TALK OVER TUMORL AT AGGY

Worcester, Aug. 16.—About fifty-seven men prominent in Massachusetts agriculture met here today in response to a letter sent out by the Massachusetts State Grange. Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation, Massachusetts Fruit Growers Association, Massachusetts Agricultural Fair Association, Boston Market Gardeners' Association and the Nantuxet Fruit Producers' Association, to discuss the problem of the administration and future policy of the Massachusetts Agricultural College. The discussion was based on the letter of resignation of President Kenney to Butler, who charged interference with the affairs of the college by the State.

Coolidge, Back in Vermont, Will Help Pitch Hay

'01 "BOYS" RESUME WORKING

Intends to Aid His Father on Farm; Wife and Son Accompany Him

Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 16.—Old John Coolidge's boy Cal came home from Washington today. He was given a right smart welcome by the neighbors' children. Cal said life in the big city wasn't what it was cracked up to be and he was glad to be back with the folks. He was looking as chipper as a yearling. Mrs. Coolidge and their boy John were along. Swinging off the main gravel road leading to the hamlet in their motor trip from Ludlow, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, stopped first at the little hillside cemetery where a month ago they buried their younger son, Calvin, Jr.

Proceeding after a brief stop at the grave to the Coolidge home, a half-mile up the road, the family was met by John Collier, the President's father. He kissed each as they alighted from the car.

The visit to the cemetery, where also are buried the President's mother and sister, was a private family standing solemnly at the graves with bowed heads for a minute.

Around a bend in the road, near the Coolidge homestead, the townsfolk were gathered. These former neighbors of the President, who only a few weeks ago comforted him at the funeral services for his son, were silent in their welcome, however, and nothing in return to similar greetings from Mr. Coolidge.

Mr. Coolidge meticulously wiped his shoes on the old rug on the front porch before entering the home.

The President's father left the house immediately after breakfast and joined the crowd of newspapermen and photographers who had accompanied the President in the hunt for quarters. Standing in the middle of the road in front of the general store, on which after the President was born, the father gave directions.

The President of the United States is plain Cal once more for the duration of a two week holiday, when he plans to make as enjoyable an stay as possible at his home.

TO GET WORKING. Although he seemed a bit weary and in need of a rest, he will take that rest working.

He plans to wield the axe and the pitchfork and get into physical condition in the fields for the trying campaign that lies ahead of him.

President Coolidge is an amateur agriculturist, but a real dirt farmer. It is true that fate took him far away from the farm, but he has not lost the old tricks that fall to the lot of every New England farmer, and he has never forgotten how.

BANKS HIT PUTNAM CRASH

Revelations of Gilpatrick Reach $500,000, Latest Audit Indicates

Hartford, Ct., Aug. 16 (Universal).—Other Connecticut banks besides the First National of Putnam are involved in the financial crash of State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatrick, who attempted suicide last week when federal examiners began to inspect his records as cashier of the Putnam bank which is now being liquidated through a receiver and will never again open for business. Other banks in a small Connecticut town recently advanced Gilpatrick $25,000 as security which now amounts worthless because of the treasurer's collapse.

The Putnam bank book value will show half a million dollars less than the $1,000,000 which it showed last audit.

Gilpatrick's position from the time he was appointed to the office of State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatrick, who attempted suicide last week when federal examiners began to inspect his records as cashier of the Putnam bank which is now being liquidated through a receiver and will never again open for business.

Other banks in a small Connecticut town recently advanced Gilpatrick $25,000 as security which now amounts worthless because of the treasurer's collapse.

The Putnam bank book value will show half a million dollars less than the $1,000,000 which it showed last audit.
